Back to our annual meeting on equine advanced orthopedics: this field of equine veterinary medicine has gained huge improvement in the past 15 years, including new diagnostic imaging techniques and innovative therapeutic means. Natasha Werpy's contribute to this outstanding development is focussed on clinical application of top-edge diagnostic imaging special techniques that provide both the field practitioners and second-opinion referral vets with helpful tools in facing clinical cases. This one-day meeting is aimed to discuss in an interactive manner clinical cases which offers a learning opportunity on how to match conventional diagnostic imaging and more advanced diagnostic techniques in a complementary way. Treatment and management of lameness issues will also be discussed.

Attendees are strongly encouraged to present their own clinical cases (Power Point or Keynote) adding potentially interesting topics to the discussion.
